

2019 Heathmont Photographic Competition and Display

This is the 6th in the series of local Photographic competitions and displays

“HEATHMONT LEISURE”

Formerly known as South Ringwood, Heathmont was named in the 1920s when it was orchard area each side of Canterbury Road with Dandenong Creek its southern boundary.

From the 1950s Melbourne suburban spread reached the area and changed from rural to suburban. A village strip shopping centre developed each side of the railway station. Today, Heathmont is an attractive, leafy suburb with a range of parks, cafes, restaurants, sporting facilities and a considerable amount of urban development.

Rules and Guidelines—details

Subject : “Heathmont Leisure”

All photos entered must be taken in 2019 in Heathmont—its reserves, walking and cycling trails, sports grounds, dog parks and any other leisure areas. You may include animals and people in your photo (you must obtain permission from any identifiable people). You may add a caption to your photo.
